

Injuries caused by Phenoxy type herbicides include twisting (epinasty) of the petioles and also cause the sugarbeet to lay flat on the ground.

SU type herbicides turn the sugarbeet leaves yellow starting with the younger leaves. The leaves may also become very brittle.

Stunting of sugarbeets is also indicative of SU type damage. Notice the affected areas on either side of the field ditch.